Dear colleagues,

As of 2022, our journal Retina Vitreus has completed its 28th publication year and stepped into the 29th year. On this occasion, I would like to express our sincere gratitude to the people and foundations who had great contributions to the continuation of our journal, especially to our readers.

Dear colleagues,

Considering the changing conditions and the improving technologies, we have revised our journal by making it online and open to everyone on internet as of 2020. That will be also same for 2023 and the following years. All of our efforts aim to make our journal available to a much wider audience and make it more useful to you.

We have been maintaining our works than include difficulties and endeavour with it for 29 years. We would like you to know that we prefer the articles to be written in English and those articles will have a priority for publication. Articles in Turkish will be translated by professional medical translation offices and will continue to be published.

All of our efforts are to serve for Turkish ophthalmology and to contribute to you authors and readers of ours. You can have access to our journal via and gazigozvakfi@gmail.com.

From now on, as always, we await your valuable contributions and hereby I express love and respect to all of you and wish you a healthy day.

Yours truly

Editor of Retina Vitreous
